School Meals are Balanced and Healthy

Meals that are part of the National School Lunch and Breakfast Programs must meet nutrition guidelines including:

- Limiting fat and saturated fat in meals
- Providing one-third of the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) of protein, calcium, iron, and vitamins A and C for lunch and one-quarter of the RDA for breakfast
- Meeting the dietary guidelines
- Serving in age appropriate portion sizes and provide the right balance of protein, dairy, whole grains, fruits and vegetables.

School Meals Help Kids Maintain a Healthy Weight

- Students who eat school meals provided through the NSLP and the SBP are more likely to be at a healthy weight.
- NSLP participants are more likely than non-participants to consume vegetables, milk and milk products, and meat and other protein-rich foods, both at lunch and over 24 hours; they also consume less soda and/or fruit drinks.*
- This benefit is especially relevant for kids and their parents in today's climate of heightened awareness of obesity issue.
- Students are less likely to gain weight during the school year when in school then during the summer when school is out.

School Meals Help Students Do Better in School

- Research has shown that students who eat school meals perform their best academically.
- Students who eat school breakfast have greater gains in standardized test scores and show improvements in math, reading and vocabulary scores.*
- Healthy eating correlates with less trips to the school nurse and less absenteeism.
- Providing nutritious school breakfast on testing days leads to improved test scores.
